

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A system and method for receiving and sending information content in audio form to a wireless communication device on demand. The system can be customized by a wireless communication device user to obtain the desired information content in audio form. The customization of the system reduces the amount of time necessary to obtain the desired information and thus the length of time of the communication is reduced.

094817 101601
FOI b1 b7C b7D